■ Story

Nichiuri Television Networks falls into a panic when an explosion occurs as Satsuki-kai, a society that promotes the Ogura Hyakunin Isshu (traditional Japanese card games based on 100 poems by 100 poets), is holding a press conference. Heiji Hattori, the high school detective of the West, and his childhood friend Kazuha Toyama are the only ones to be left behind in the crumbling building, but are rescued by Conan in the nick of time. It seems like an act of terrorism. However, Conan and Heiji feel that something is "off" with this incomprehensible case, where the motive of the culprit is unknown. Amid the panic caused by the explosion, Conan meets a girl who insists that she is Heiji's fiancée. The girl, Momiji Ooka, turns out to be a high school champion of a competitive Hyakunin Isshu card game. One thing led to another and Kazuha challenges Momiji to a game of Hyakunin Isshu over Heiji. Her days of training begins under the guidance of Heiji's mother Shizuka, who is a skilled Hyakunin Isshu player.

At about the same time, a Satsuki Cup champion is murdered in a Japanese-style housing in the Arashiyama district of Kyoto. Momiji is seen in a video of the murder scene, where numerous Hyakunin Isshu cards scattered meaningfully around the victim. How is Momiji related to the murder?

Together with the Osaka and the Kyoto Police Departments, Conan and Heiji begin to investigate Satsuki-kai which is related to the two incidents. Various suspicious characters surface as the investigation proceeds. As the duo untangles the web in this baffling case, they manage to uncover a secret related to Hyakunin Isshu that the two incidents have in common. When the link between the two incidents that occurred separately in Osaka and Kyoto is identified, the wheel of fate begins to accelerate.

Written by mystery writer Takahiro Okura, who participated in the creation of the movie version for the first time, and the ever unchanging and reliable staff and cast came together once again, with music by Katsuo Ohno and Minami Takayama in the lead role as Conan Edogawa, Wakana Yamazaki as Ran Mouri, Rikiya Koyama as Kogoro Mouri, Ryo Horikawa as Heiji Hattori, and Yuko Miyamura as Kazuha Toyama, directed by Kobun Shizuno.

As a member of the Production Committee, TMS will be focusing on increasing customer satisfaction and enhancing the brand value of "Detective Conan – The Crimson Love Letter" to ensure that it is worthy of the 21st movie in the series.
